WEST GUILFORD.

Struck in Several Places—Leaves Rid-died by Large Hailstones.

One of the worst electrical storms in recent years, accompanied by hail, came Saturday afternoon. At Mr. Chapin's, formerly the Fred Betterley place, the hailstones measured an inch and a half in circumference and the leaves of the trees were cut so badly that they made a perfect carpet in the road. The hailstones at the Eastwood place were as large as chestnuts. People were frightened all along the line. Lightning struck the Henry Cutting house, tearing off a part of the side door casing, tearing out a window casing, throwing a looking glass across the room and breaking it so fine that not a piece was left as large as a nickel. In the dining room it tore a hole in the picture as large as a small plate, throwing the picture across the table and breaking in a hundred pieces. In the kitchen it broke six large panes of glass and when it went out the window opposite from where it entered it left eight small holes in the lower glass as though punched with a small tool. Start Cutting set in the dining room reading and the rest of the family, five in number, sat in the parlor adjoining, but none was affected.

At Austin Nichols's two chickens were killed. They had taken refuge near the front door step beside the telephone wire. Two goslings were killed in the hen-house.

At Francis Lynde's, the lightning struck a pole carrying the clothes line, peeling off a strip half an inch wide the whole length, killing a hen that had eight chickens, but not hurting the chicks. The wire clothes line was fastened to a hook in the southeast corner of the house. The lightning struck it, tearing off clapboards, making a large hole through into the parlor and filling the room with smoke. Mrs. Newton Hastings sat in the parlor and received an electric shock. The current went into the parlor bedroom, tearing a hole a foot long in the heavy Smyrna art square. From there it went to the closet, tearing the mopboards and bulging the floor. In the opposite end of the house in the bathroom it struck the door casing, pulled up the threshold, shattered the door, ripped off the mop board and then went down the register and out through the clapboards, tearing them off on the back of the house.

Henry Goodenough's home was struck. Henry Goodenough's home was struck and a large elm tree in Mr. Sadiman's dooryard was hit, peeling off the bark and breaking off a very large limb.

Towards Guilford (see note of Frank Henry's best cows was killed, valued at $75. One of Lewis Jaqueth's horses was killed.

FISHBURNE VICTIM OF APPENDICITIS

Brattleboro Ball Player Operated Upon in Melrose Hospital Today by Dr. Lynch—His Second Attack.

The Brattleboro team, trying to struggle out of its difficulties, was weakened today when Shortstop Fishburne was taken to the Melrose hospital and operated upon by Dr. E. R. Lynch for appendicitis. He was taken ill last night and it was decided that an immediate operation was imperative. This is the second attack he has suffered since coming to Brattleboro, his first keeping him out of the games a week the first of this month.

The makeup of the team this afternoon is problematical, but Manager O'Hara expects to start Dike in the box and will play an infield position, himself, probably third, placing Johnson at short, his regular position. As Hicks pitched the greater part of the game yesterday, Eggers and Dike are the only available twirlers today. Manager O'Hara has another man coming to take Fishburne's place, but he will hardly reach town in time to make the trip with the team.

Fishburne's father lives in Haverhill, Mass., and President George E. Sherman of the association, after visiting the hospital and obtaining the address, telegraphed Mr. Fishburne, advising him that everything possible was being done for the young man.

COMMENT ON THAT FORFEITED GAME

Hampshire Gazette Thinks President Should Investigate and Throw it Out if Facts Are as Stated.

Commenting upon the forfeited game Saturday at Newport the Hampshire Gazette of Northampton, after publishing the story that appeared in The Reformer Monday, says:

"If it be true that the Belkows Falls team was delayed by a broken down automobile and Burns did the telephoning and directors to declare the forfeit president and the game played. Under the circumstances Burns should have notified the Newport manager or directors of his unfortunate predicament, and no doubt they would have been told to turn back. The statement that Umpire Cassidy received $10 by forfeiting the game and $3 if it wasn't played is true, but the umpire would not lose if it was called off by rain because when the double header is played he would receive enough extra to make up what was lost on the postponed game. Belkows Falls never showed much sportsmanship themselves. In 1912, the last game of the season scheduled here with Belkows Falls, our team waited patiently for the Vermont team, but they never showed up. We lost gate receipts amounting to $300 and never even got a good excuse for their not playing. Belkows Falls attempted to work a colored pitcher against us last season and took the forfeited game without a kick from the upriver towns.

We believe that the matter will be thoroughly investigated by President Keyes and his decision as to whether the forfeit should stand will be given fairly and for the best interests of the league."
